PASTOR'S COLUMN

REFLECTION ON THE READINGS

There is a certain feeling that comes with Labor Day weekend. Summer is not quite over, but we can sense September beginning to take hold. The last cookouts are on the calendar, students and teachers are finding their rhythm again, and many of us are preparing to return to the fuller pace of ordinary life. In that small pause between one season and the next, the Church invites us to look with gratitude at the gift of work—not only paid employment, but every form of labor by which we help sustain a family, serve a neighbor, strengthen a community, or quietly care for someone in need.

That gratitude matters, because work is never just about what we produce. It is also about the kind of people we become while doing it. A parent packing a lunch before sunrise, a nurse checking on one more patient, a teacher preparing a classroom, a worker finishing a difficult task with integrity, a parish volunteer giving time no one else sees: all of these can become places where love takes flesh.

Saint Paul gives us the heart of it in this Sunday's second reading: "Love does no evil to the neighbor; hence, love is the fulfillment of the law." But love, as we know, is not always soft or easy. Love is not simply being pleasant, avoiding discomfort, or keeping the peace at any cost.

In the Gospel, Jesus speaks about the hard work of correction and reconciliation. Most of us would rather avoid that kind of work. We know how quickly a conversation can turn defensive, how easily a correction can sound like criticism, and how tempting it is to say, "It is not my place."

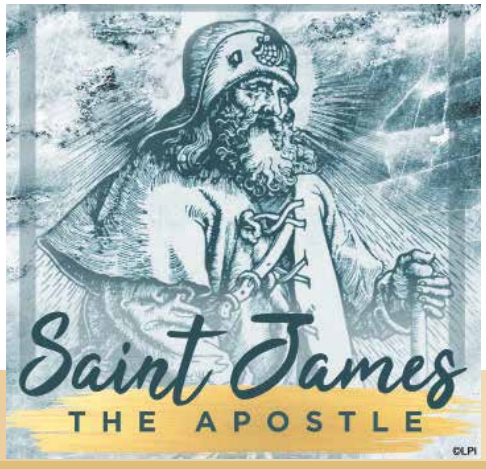
Jesus is not asking us to become harsh, self-righteous, or eager to point out another person's faults. He is showing us something much more demanding: that love sometimes requires the courage to speak, the humility to listen, and the patience to seek reconciliation rather than victory. Real love does not *crush another person. It tries to lift them. It does not expose wounds for the sake of being right. It seeks healing for the sake of communion.

Perhaps that is a good Labor Day lesson for all of us. Whatever our work may be—in an office, a classroom, a hospital, a construction site, a parish ministry, a family home, or in the quiet labor of caregiving—the deeper question is not only, "What did I accomplish?" but "Whom did I serve?" and "Did my words, my choices, and my labor build up the life of another?" As we thank God for the work of our hands, let us also ask Him to purify the work of our hearts, so that everything we do may be rooted in the love that seeks the good of our neighbor.

Rev. David C. Santos, Pastor

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"The fruit of love is service, which is compassion in action."
— Saint Teresa of Calcutta



SUNDAY READINGS

FIRST READING
Ezekiel 33:7-9
You, son of man, I have appointed watchman for the house of Israel; when you hear me say anything, you shall warn them for me. If I tell the wicked, "O wicked one, you shall surely die," and you do not speak out to dissuade the wicked from his way, the wicked shall die for his guilt, but I will hold you responsible for his death.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM
Psalm 95
If today you hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

SECOND READING
Romans 13:8-10
The commandments, "You shall not commit adultery; you shall not kill; you shall not steal; you shall not covet," and whatever other commandment there may be, are summed up in this saying, namely, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." Love does no evil to the neighbor; hence, love is the fulfillment of the law.

GOSPEL
Matthew 18:15-20
"Amen, I say to you, whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. Again, amen, I say to you, if two of you agree on earth about anything for which they are to pray, it shall be granted to them by my heavenly Father. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

Full Mass readings can be accessed at usccb.org
